

the salesperson writes an invoice for each car sold. a car is purchased by a single customer.

a customer can purchase multiple cars, but each car is purchased by a single customer.

a customer may or may not eventually need their car serviced a car that's being serviced may or may not need parts a salesperson can sell many cars, but a car is only sold by one salesperson.

a sales person writes an invoice for each car he sells.

a car can be worked on by many mechanics, and many mechanics can work on several different cars.